The dance Tuesday evening was an enjoyable affair. All reported having had a fine time. The only fault to find was that the hall was too small to accommodate the crowd.

CAUGHT ON THE FLY.

The man who is lazy never has time to do anything.

The wise man makes money from fool's want of sense.

Too many people in this world talk wisely and act foolishly.

It would probably be considered out of place to refer to the doctors as microbe chasers.

If rich, the man who is a little queer is called eccentric; if poor, he is simply called a crank.

The thirteenth foolishness lasted just long enough to injure the reputation of some persons who talk frequently, but not always wisely.

That girl who wanted to commit suicide because she couldn't sit up after midnight with her sweetheart, should marry him. Then she might have a chance of sitting up long after midnight for him.

The men who composed the army of the Cumberland have had a remarkable record since the war. Three of the army's generals have become presidents—Grant, Garfield and Harrison. Every commander in chief of the U. S. army, with the exception of Gen. Miles, served in the army of the Cumberland. Seventeen members have been in cabinet, thirty-eight have been senators and three hundred have been in congress.
